THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

VOL. XXII.

ATLANTA, GA., THURSDAY MORNING, JANUARY 8, 1891.

THE BEHRING SEA.

HOW THE UNITED STATES ACQUIRED RIGHTS THERE

AND WHAT GREAT BRITAIN CLAIMS.

The Controversy of the Last Four Years and How It Originated-Mr. Blaine's Agree-ment with Lord Salisbury-Review.

New York, January 7 .- [Special.]-The gravity of the situation with reference to the Behring sea dispute cannot be denied. The United States government claims the right to control the waters adjacent to the Pribylov group of islands to a distance sufficient to procoup of Islands to a distance the herds of seal from destruction by Canadian vessels. The English government denies this right of controlfoutside the three-mile limit, which, by the law of nations, extends the jurisdiction of every country-s cannon-shot from the shore.

Upon this point contention has been going on four years, and the argument is exhausted. The only way to a peaceful settlement of the dispute appears to be through arbitration.

the two countries are freely discussed by the leading papers of England and America, and despatches emanating from Washington and Annapolis give a catalogue of the steamers nd ships of war ordered to the Pacific by the United States government. This is said to have been done on information that both England and Germany are massing naval forces in the northern part of the Pacific ocean.

But as both nations have proposed arbitra-tion and the difference in the form of the matter to be submitted is all that remains to prevent that course, it is likely that the peaceul and sensible method will be resorted to. The matter has been brought to the attention of the public this week through the message of the president, which submits two let-ters, one from the Marquis of Salisbury, stating the case for her majesty's government, and one from Mr. Blaine, supporting the THE STORY REVIEWED.

In order that the arguments may be in-telligible, it is necessary to know the history of the relations under which Alaska and the fur-seal islands attached have been held, first by Russia and in late years by the United States. Russia's claim rested ton the right of discovery and she maintained the right to ex-clusive control of the fur-seal fisheries. This claim, put forth in the ukase of the czar in 1821, led to a dispute which was finally set-tled by the Russo-American treaty of 1824 and Russo-Anglican treaty of 1825.

After those treaties, Russia continued in control of the seal fisheries until 1868, and during forty years of that time granted monopoly of the fishing privilege to corporation known as the Russian-American company. This was referred to by the imperial council of Russia as a "monopoly," which indeed it must have been, for the gross acome from the catch and slaughter of seals, during the forty years succeeding the two treaties above referred to, amounted to 135,-000,000 rubles, and the dividends 17,000,000 rubles-a sum equal to 50 per cent per annum rubles—a sum equal to 50 per cent per annum during the first twenty years and 45 per cent per annum during the last two decades. During the whole period of forty years there was no attempt at participation in this lucrative traffic by the subjects of either England or the United States. This long period of uninterrupted monopoly is cited by Mr. Blaine as a strong argument against the presumption that either England or America understood by the treaties of 1824 and 1825 that they were entitled to fish in Behring sea anywhere outside the three-mile limits of shores, then under Russan dominion.

i justification of this view the secretary of state quotes from the diary of Mr. Adams a passage showing that Baron Tuyl, the Rus-sian minister, took the pains in 1824 to inform Mr. Adams that the Russian construction of the treaty then awaiting ratification did not admit of any poaching on the Siberian coast, the Aleutian islands or any of the then Russian possessions north of latitude 59 degrees and 30 minutes. These regions, according to Baron Tuyl, "are positively excepted from the liberty of hunting, fishing and commerce stipulated in favor of citizens of the United States for ten years." Thus a special exception was from certain liberties granted for a decade, so as to prevent any encroachments whatever upon the islands where the seals had their breeding grounds. In reply Mr. Adams, while wisely holding the position that it was out of the power of the executive to modify the treaty, even for the purpose of interpretation, advised the Russian minister to make no move in that direction unless pressed to that course by his government. "Our merchants," said he, in an unofficial note to Baron Tuyl, "would not go to trouble the Russians on the coast of ions north of latitude 59 degrees and 30 go to trouble the Russians on the coast of Siberia, or north of the fifty-seventh degree of go to trouble the Russians on the coast of Siberia, or north of the fifty-sevent degree of latitude, and it is wisest not to put such fancies into their heads."

The second article of Russia's treaty with the United States in 1824 is as follows:

With a view of preventing the rights of navigation and fishing exercised upon the great coean by the cutzens and subjects of the high contracting powers from becoming a pretext for an illicit trade, it is agreed that the citizens of the United States shall not resort to any point where there is a Russian establishment, without the permission of the governor or commander; and that reciprocally the subjects of Russia shall not resort, without permission, to any establishment of the United States upon, the northwest coast.

The same restrictions for the protection of Russian interests in 1824 Mr. Blaine now claims for the protection of American interests. He cites also Russia's treaty with England in 1825, in which a similar provision in claims for the protection of American Interests. He cites also Russia's treaty with England in 1825, in which a similar provision in almost the same words occurred. Its second article was as follows:

In order to prevent the rights of navigation and fishing exercised upon the ocean by the subjects of the high contracting parties, from becoming the pretext for an illicit commerce, it is agreed that the subjects of his Britannic majesty shall not land at any place where there may be a Russian establishment without the permission of the governor or commandant, and, on the other hand, the Russian subjects shall not land without permission at any British establishment on the northwest coast.

The SALE OF ALASKA.

and later of the United States to the exclusive control of the waters about the seal islands was acquiesced in by the non-interference of British subjects during a long period of time, the marquis says that, because the British subjects do not see fit to use any part of the high seas, another nation cannot acquire a prescriptive right to that portion of the great ocean. In reference to this particular case, he says the reason why there was no interference with the seal fisheries by the British subjects was that until late years there was no considerable influx of population on the Pacific coast of British America, and that those who went to that region in 1849 were attracted by the gold discoveries, and paid no attention to fisheries for a long time. Considering the sparse settlements of the Pacific coast of the United States during the earlier part of this century, this argument of the English premier is rather thin.

MR. BLAINE'S REPLY.

Mr. Blaine's, reply to the marquis of Salis bury's defense to the three-mile limit is a tell-ing one. He refers to the fact that during the imprisonment of Napoleon at St. Helena, Eng-land claimed and maintained a jurisdiction land claimed and maintained a jurisdiction over the ocean for eight leagues from the shore. If that precedent is too eid, he offers one still in existence in the Indian ocean, where, with the permission of the mother country, the Australian government maintains pearl fisheries in an ocean area 600 miles wide, and taxes heavily vessels which gather pearls far outside the three-mile limit.

This citation seems directly to the point, for the contention of this country is not to make Behring sea a "mare clausum," but to extend our dominion far enough from the shores of the scal islands to prevent the wanton destructhe seal islands to prevent the wanton destrucour dominion far enough from the shores of the seal islands to prevent the wanton destruction of the seals.

The practical bearing of the controversy is this: The seals have breeding places, called rookeries, on the shores of St. Paul island and several other islands of the Pribylov group, and, in the season, they pass from one island to another. Like all animals, the seal must not be disturbed in the breeding season, or they will soon be destroyed, and, like the buffalos, their species will become extinct. To protect the seal from this wanton destruction, the United States has stringent laws prescribing the time when killing shall be permissible, and limiting the catch to a certain number of seals of specified sex and maturity during one year. These rules the American company, which pays the government a royalty of $100,000 per annum, strictly observes, but it does no good, for Canadian vessels hover between the islands, outside the three-mile limit, and slaughter the seals without regard to the conditions necessary to the perpetuation of the species.

Under our construction of treaty rights rev-

Species.
Under our construction of treaty rights revenue cutters were sent to seize the posching vessels and several seizures were made.
This raised the question of jurisdiction outside the three-mile limit, and for four years the dispute has been in progress.

THE PROPOSED ARBITRATION.

The English minister's letter proposes that the question of the legality of seal captures in Behring sea be submitted to arbitration. Respecting the British proposition looking rbitration, the secretary says:

Respecting the British proposition looking to arbitration, the secretary says:

In the judgment of the president nothing of importance would be settled by proving that Great Britain conceded no jurisdiction to Russia over the scal fisheries of the Behring sea. It might as well be proved that Russia conceded no jurisdiction to England over the river Thanes. By doing nothing in each case everything is conceded. In meither case is anything asked of the other. "Concession" as used here means simply acquiescence in the rightfulness of the title, and that is the only form of concession which Russia asked of Great Britain, or which Great Britain gave to Russia.

The second offer of Lord Salisbury to arbitrate amounts simply to a submission of the question whether any country has a right to extend its jurisdiction more than one marine league from the shore. No one disputes that, as a rule, but the question is whether there may not be exceptions whose enforcement does not interfere with those highways of commerce which the necessities and usage of the world have marked out. Great Britain, when she desired an exception, did not stop to consider or regard the inconvenience to which the commercial world might be subjected. Her exception placed an obstecle in the highway between continents. The United States, in protecting the seal fisheries, will not interfere with a single sail of commerce on any sea of the globe.

It will mean something tanglible in the president's opinion if Great Britain will consent to arbitrate the real questions which have been under discussion between the two governments for the last four years. I shall endeavor to state what, in the judgment of the president, those issues are:

1. What executive jurisdiction in the sea now the province of the president, when it was the presidents.

1. What executive jurisdiction in the sea now exercise prior and up to the time of the cession of Alaska to the United States?

2. How far were these claims of jurisdiction as Great Britain?

used in the treaty of 1825 between Great Britain and Russia, and what rights, if any, in the Behring sea were given or conceded to Great Britain by the said treaty"

4. Did not all the rights of Russia as to jurisdiction, and as to the seal fisheries in Behring sen,

What are now the rights of the United States as to the fur-seal fisheries in the waters of Behring sea outside the ordinary territory at limits, whether such rights grow out of the cession by Russia of any special rights or jurisdiction held by her in such fisheries or in the waters of Behring sea, or out of the ownership of the breeding islands and the habits of the seals in resorting thither and rearing their young thereon and going out from the islands for food, or out of any other fact or incident connected with the relation of those seal fisheries to the territorial possessions of the United States?

6. If the determination of the foregoing questions shall leave the subject in such position that the concurrence of Great Britain is necessary in prescribing regulations for the killing of fur-seals in any part of the waters of Behring sea, then it shall be further determined: (1) how far, if at all, outside the ordinary territorial limits it is necessary that the United States should exercise an exclusive jurisdiction in order to protect the seal for the time living upon the islands of the United States and feeding therefrom; (2) whether a closed season (during which the killing of seals in the waters of Behring sea outside the ordinary territorial limits shall be prohibited) is necessary to save the seafishing industry, so valuable and important to mankind, from deterioration or destruction? and, also (3), what months or parts of months

When these treaties had been in force for more than forty years and no attempt had ever been made by British subjects to encroach on the monopoly which the Russians held in the seal fisheries of Behring sea, Russia sold Alaska, the Aleutian islands and certain other territory between the fifty-fourth and sixtieth parallels of north latitude to the United States, transferring to this country all the rights she had enjoyed in the seal fisheries.

With what appears to be a plain precantionary provision against illicit commerce in the treaties made sixty-five years ago, and with more than forty years of uninterrupted enjoyment of the fisheries monopoly by Bussia before selling the property to the United States, Mr. Blaine thinks the construction of those treaties in favor of the American claim to control of the seal islands is very plainly established. He argues that Behring sea was never known as part of the Pacific ocean, but always as a separate body of water, designated by trish leaders resolved that the proceedings should be regarded as of a confidential nature. It is understood, however, that the exchange of views, which have taken place, have to hope that a peaceable sottlement of matters in dispersionary provision against illicit commerce in the treaties made sixty-five years ago, and with more than forty years of uninterrupted enjoyment of the fisheries monopoly by Bussia before selling the property to the United States, Mr. Blaine thinks the construction of those treaties in favor of the American claim to control of the seal islands is very plainly established. At the head of the present lobby is A ron Vanderbilt, of the Ward Steamship line. Ed Curtis, of the Pacific Mail; Colonel Charles Hill, who was formerly statistician at the sate department, and thirty or forty others. The democrats are fighting the bill almost to a man. They maintain that it is the height of folly to build obstructions to international turn around and spend $35,000,000 on subsidie to attempt to galvanize into a life a destroye commerce. The democratic opposition to the bill was stated in a nutshell by Representa tive Herbert, of Alabama, this afternoon when he said: "The proposition that trade follows the flag is absurd. Trade, like water, flows in natural channels. It always seeks the lowest level. When untrammelled by de-structive laws it naturally follows the line of lowest prices to the best market. Trade knows no more about the flag than water."

The democrats claim that the only way to build up a foreign commerce again and an American merchant marine is to remove the nternational barrier to trade in the form of high customs duties.

Fixing a Day.

Senator Wolcott and Senator Gorman had a long conference today about fixing a date for the senate to vote upon the silver bill. The republicans want to vote as soon as possible, while the democrats are not in any hurry. The democrats do not care to give Hoar another opportunity to call up the force bill. If a free coinage bill passed this week, and went ask the senate to again consider the force bill but if it is delayed until the appropriation bills and other important matters are piled up high in the senate, then these matters will have to be taken up in preference to wasting time over another the silver bill will be taken next Tuesday. The free coinage amendment will pass. Then the house will again have to grapple with this question. Unless Reed intrudes arbitrarily, and he says he will not, free coinage will als pass the house. The anti-silver members of he house, however, say a free coinage bill

The proposition met with no particular opposition on either side, but as Mr. Ceckrell suggested it would be well for the question to go over till tomorrow, Mr. Stewart assented and said that he would tomorrow ask to have a time fixed for taking a vote on the bill and amendments.

Mr. Daniel addressed the senate, declaring himself in favor of the absolute free and unlimited colleans of silver.

Mr. Daniel addressed the scaars, declaring himself in favor of the absolute free and unlimited coinage of silver.

Mr. Hiscock said that to listen to this delate, a stranger might be impressed with the idea that the senators who were opposed to the free coinage of silver were few in number, and were only representatives of the gold kings and gold bugs. He believed that more than one-half of the people of the United States were opposed to the opening of the United States were opposed to the opening of the mints to the free coinage of silver.

Mr. Stewart spoke briefly in reply to Mr. Hiscock's argument concerning the 2 per cent bond proposition and then Mr. Sawyer moved an executive session.

"Oh!" said Mr. Edmunds, "let us take a vote on this bill now."

Mr. Stewart expressed the desire that an early day should be fixed for taking a vote.

Mr. Edmunds—What is your idea of an early day?

Mr. Edmunds (in a tone of bitter sarcasm)—The session is drawing to an end, and this most important and immacelate bill ought to be got into the form of law at the earliest possible moment. The country, of course, is suffering for it. Dasster and bankruptcy are said to be impending, and, therefore, we ought not to leave a stone unturned to get an immediate vote upon it.

Paris, January 7.—A fearful conflagration, which has rendered thirty families homeless and which may came the loss of several lives, occurred at an early hour this morning. A few minutes after midnight, line was discovered in the rear of a hatter's store, situated on the first floor of a crowded building on the Verrerie. The flames spread so rapidly that the panic stricken occupants of several floors had barely time to rush into the street in their night clothes. Several mothers, with their younger children clasped in their arms, joined in the rush of terrified people down the stairs of the burning building and were knocked down and, in many instances, seriously injured.

Mr. Bingham, of Littleton, moved that a committee of three from each party be appointed to ascertain who are legally entitled to sit as members of the house. Clerk Jewett declined to state the motion on the ground that the house had not organized.

Mr. Bingham then, amid much confusion, put the question and declared it carried. This caused laughter. After the members had been sworn in Mr. Gallinger, of Concord, was elected temporary chairman.

The senate organized this noon, electing McLane of Milford district, president; C. J. Hamblett, of Nashua, cherk; E. H. Washington, of Nashua, assistant clerk; O. H. Hamblett, of Mason, sergeaut-at-arms, and Charles Emmons, of Wilmot, messenger. The returns of votes in different districts were read. T. G. Clarke was elected speaker of the house, S. T. In the house, this afternoon, the republican candidates for sergeant-at-arms and door keeper were elected, and special committees appointed to report rules and select a chaplain. The senate met the house in joint convention at 4 o'clock and filled two vacancies resulting from failure to elect. Both are filled by republicans. The committee appointed to canvass the return of votes for governor to the secretary of state, reported as follows: Whole number of votes 86,240: Hiram A. Tuttle, republican, 42,479; Charles H. All fifty senators were present, and 106 of the 120 members of the house. There are four negroes in the legislature, one being in the senate. Nearly all the members are of middle age, and are substantial men, mainly farmers. Eleutemant Governor Holt, in calling the senate to order, made an address of welcome. The various officers nominated by the democrats were elected without opposition. R. M. Furman, principal clerk; G. P. Pell, reading clerk; J. H. Hinnant, principal doorkeeper; A. M. Noble, assistant doorkeeper; Michael Bradshaw, engrossing clerk.

The house was called to order by Thomas B. Womack, clerk of the last house. The first business was the election of a speaker. Richard A. Doughton, of Alleghany, was nominated by the democrats. J. A. Hendricks, of Davie, by the republicans. The vote was: Doughton, 93; Hendricks, 13. The other officers elected are: Principal clerk, J. M. Brown; reading clerk, H. A. Latham; principal doorkeeper, H. E. King; assistant, G. L. Kilpatrick; engrossing clerk, A. H. Hayes. The governor's message will be received and read tomorrow.

Were Having Fun.

Washington, January 7.—The vice president has been criticized in some quarters on account of his absence from the chair at the time Mr. Stewart made his motion to take up the financial bill. The facts are that before he left the chair, as usual, for his lunch, after the morning business had been concluded, Mr. George had been recognized to continue an unfinished speech on the election bill and had commenced his speech on that hill with a large number of books on his desk, apparently for reference.

large number of books on his desk, apparently for reference.

The vice president had not the most complete idea that any other business would be considered during the day. It is customary with any presiding officer, and considered a matter of courtesy, to ask senators on either side of the chamber to take the chair when the presiding officer has occasion to vacate it temporarily; and on this occasion Mr. Harris was called to the chair. No other rating could have been made by the vice president or any other senator, than that made by Mr. Harris, as Mr. George had yielded the floor, and Mr. Stewart was the only senator asking

BURIAL OF THE BRAVE. THE REMAINS OF CAPTAIN WAL-LACE INTERRED.

THE CEREMONIES AT YORKVILLE.

Business Almost Suspended During the Funeral—The Elaborate Floral Offerings from the Ladies—Military Honors.

CHARLESTON, S. C., January 7.—Capt. George D. Wallace, who was killed by the Indians in the battle of Wounded Knee, was buried this morning in the cemetery at Yorkville, S. C., his old home. The services were conducted at the Presbyterian church by Rev. R. C. Galloway, of the Associate Reference should at the Pressylerian church by Rev. R. C. Galloway, of the Associate Reform church, and Rev. L. G. Patrick, chaplain of the Jenkins Rifles, a local military company. The casket was placed immediately in front of the pulpit and was draped with United States flags and covered with beautiful floral offerings. It was guarded throughout last night by a sentinel at the head and one at the foot, and this morning at 11 o'clock was delivered to General E. M. Law, a con-federate brigadier, who acted as chief mar-

SERVICES AT THE CHURCH. When the dead soldier's family entered the church, the choir, led by Mrs. P. R. Bratton, church, the choir, led by Mrs. F. Is. brasion, sang the hymn, "Come, Ye Disconsolate." Prayer was offered by Chaplain Patrick, and was followed by an impressive funeral discourse by Rev. Mr. Galloway, from Jeremiah, forty-eighth chapter, seventeenth verse: "All ye that are about him, bemoan him, and all ye that know his name say: How is the strong staff broken and the beautiful rod." The preacher commented with great power and eloquence on the exalted character and high and manly virtues of the heroic dead. After the conclusion of services at the church, a funeral procession was formed, with the Jenkins Rifles, under Captain W. B.

Moore, as escort, and proceeded to the village cemetery, where the interment took place. Business was almost suspended, and the whole community joined the procession to the grave, where the soldier was buried with military honors, the Jenkins Rifles firing salute over the grave.

FLORAL DECORATIONS.

The grave was decorated with wreaths and crosses of magnolia, laurel and cut flowers, tributes of the ladies of Yorkville. The flag of Captain Wallace's troop, in which his body had been wrapped when taken from the field, and which had draped his coffin during his long journey home, was placed in charge of General Law, by the family of the deceased, to be presented to the Jenkins rifles as a testimonial of their appreciation of the respect and honor shown the heroic dead.

Captain Wallace was a son of Hon. A. S. Wallace, republican congressman from this state, and a brother to Colonel R. M. Wallace, United States marshal for South Carolina

A POW-WOW WITH MILES.

The Indians and Soldiers to Talk Over the PINE RIDGE, January 7.—Jack Red Cloud, Big Road, High Horse, Lone Bear, Live Hawk, and the five other Indians who came in from the hostile camp to hold a pow-wow with General Miles were allowed a briefer conference than they had expected. General Miles plainly told them to come in and sur-

Miles plainly told them to come in and surrender; that he was not here to listen to their complaints; that they would be allowed to ge to Washington to make them after the trouble was arranged here. They stated that nearly, if not quite all, of the Pine Ridge Indians were desirous of peace and wanted to come hack to the agency. If the Pine Ridge agency Indians concluded to come back, it would greatly reduce the war party, now numbering 4,000. According to Agent Cooper's figures there are 2,200 Pine Ridge Indians absent, and so their force will be reduced at least half the present number. A large portion of the remainder will doubtless fight to the end.

General Miles held another short talk with these Indians and they set out on their return. It is thought mest of the Pine Ridge Indians will be here in a day or two. Yesterday the quartermaster, Captain Hughey, purchased a herd of Indian ponies, with which to mount the First infantry, recently arrived from Angel island, California. Persons are reported as seeing a party of fifty Indians going south some miles to the east of here towards the town of Gordon. Lieutenant Greslam, with one troop of the Seventh Cavalry, at once pursued, but up to a late hour was unable to find any trace of them. It was doubtless a small raiding party, which immediately returned upon seeing they were discovered.

CHARLESTON, S. C., January 7 .- [Special.]-There is a big political sensation, one which may have a fatal termination. The following statement was obtained from a trustworthy source: Yesterday afternoon, at Coloumbia, S. C., George Dupree, clerk of committee on privileges and elections of the South Carolina legislature, called on N. G. Gonzaler, correslegislature, called on N. G. Gonzaler, correspondent of The News and Courier, at Columbia, and said that J. R. Tillman, som of the Congressman, and nephew of Governor Tillman, desired to fight a duel with him.

Mr. Gonzales informed Mr. Dupree that the challenge was not in writing and that he could not accept it, and he assigned other reasons that he did not regard the message as a challenge under the code.

ne did not regard the message as a chairenge under the code.

It was stated further that Mr. Tillman and Mr. Dupree had left Columbia, and that a written challenge would be mailed to Mr. Gonzales. No cause is assigned for the desire to fight, but it is supposed to refer to the writings of Mr. Gonzales against the Tillman party in the recent campaign.

Mr. N. G. Gonzales is a son of General Gonzales, aide to General Beauregard during the war. His mother is of the distinguished Elliott family. He is one of the ablest and best known newspaper men in South Carolina, and for eleven years was connected with The News and Courier. He has always been a fearless and bold writer, and during the last campaign a bitter partisan against the Tillman party.

One of these lawyers said today that he had no doubt in his mind about receiving a new trial for his clients, and was sat-isfied the question of jurisdiction would be decided in their favor. The defense ac-knowledges that it will be unable to secure a review of the trial by the supreme court and view of the trial by the supreme court and eir only hopes are based on the point of Another of the defendant's lawyers said today that the supreme court had never taken up the matter. He says when the writ of habeas corpus was presented to them they simply refused to consider it, on the ground that it was premature, and should not be brought before them until after a trial and conviction. Now, he says, the writ can be carried before them and argued, and they will decide it.

There seems to be considerable doubt as to whether or not all of the prisoners can be presented to the supreme court, and it was on this point that THE CONSTITUTION questioned particularly. Another point the public is anxious about is whether or not the prisoners will be placed in the Ohio penitentiary at once or allowed to remain in jail until the supreme court decides the matter. District Attorney Erwin says they will be taken off as soon as convenient and placed in the penitentiary and that the questions how pending tentiary and that the questions now pe will not affect the sentence of the court until after they have been decided. There are many, however, who disagree with him on this point, they claiming that the prisoners do not stand convicted until the supreme court has decided upon the interventions made in stockholders were not to be downed and at this morning's meeting they determined to begin business on a capital of $250,000 for the present, to be increased to $500,000 at the earliest possible day. Many of those who subscribed to the stock of the bank a few months ago and who were then able to pay their subscriptions find it now a very hard matter to secure the necessary money and it was to suit their convenience that it was determined to begin business on a smaller capital.

Of course under the new state of affairs it will be necessary for Mr. Hillyer, who has had charge of the work of securing subscriptions, to recanvass, in order that anyone of the stockholders whether or not he desires stock since

Mr. Reed said that only last spring Mr. Sam Jones came here on an invitation of the pastors; that before he had been in town three days he had all the preachers wallowing in the dust, with their hands tied and their mouths closed, and all they did do was to applaud the man who had knocked them down, and crown him with laurels. This was one feature of the evangelical meetings Mr. Reed did not like. Several crossed swords with him, and the meeting adjourned till tonight without taking any section.

New York, January 7.—Futures opened higher, further advanced, closing firm at thirteen to seventeen points advance from yesterday's closing prices. The market was buoyant today, as it was depressed in the two previous days. Liverpool made values gradually aduance to about the closing figures of Saturday. The firmness of the southern spot markets, more activity at some of them, and broyant futures at New Orleans, were in some degree elements of strength. The Liverpool advance was understood to be caused by a renewal of troubles of the bears there, which caused a bulge last week, namely, their inability to get cotton forward to fill their contracts in that market, and the position it regarded as so uncertain as to cause much uneasiness. Spot cotton was more active, mainly for home consumption, and prices were very firm. The Sun's Cotton Review.

THE OCTOROON

WHO HAS BEEN MADE RICH BY VIRGINIA COURT.

She Is Still Remembered, and Where Her Sister Was Married.

COLUMBUS, Ga., January 7 .- [Special.]-The lecision of the chancery court of Richnond, Va., by which Bettie Lewis Thomas, a negress, becomes the possessor of a $280,000 estate, left her by her white father, is of special interest here, because the parties once lived in this city. The suit, in many respects, resembled that of the concubine of the late David Dickson, of Georgia, in which the supreme court of our own state confirmed the right of negro offspring to inherit the property of white ancestors.

THE MAN IN THE CASE. W. A. Thomas was a man of somewhat ec-centric character. The records in this case show that he was born and raised in Pittsylvania county, Virginia. It was there that it i alleged he lived with a colored woman, whose name is not given. Two children were born, and Thomas is said to have acknowledged himself as their father and treated them as his children. These children were known as Bettie and Fannie Thomas. Their mother hav ing married a man of her own color Thomas took a trip to Europe, placing the two girls in the care of Philip Thomas, a relative. Thomas returned during the war, and Bettie Lewis says it was not until then that she learned that she was not entirely white. Soon after his return he brought the wo girls to Columbus, where they all lived until the close of the war. Fannie having in the meantime married here. Bettie, who had traveled a good deal and was accomplished. married a Massachusetts negro, who carries o the drug business in Richmond. He is much darker in color than his now wealthy octoroon wife, and it is this union that gives her the name by which she is known in legal and court circles, of "Bettie Lewis Thomas."

NRAE HIS CONCUEINE AGAIN.
Soon after the end of the war Thomas returned to Richmond. He bought a small farmigust outside the city, and Bettie's mother and her husband and the husband of Fannie Thomas, deceased, all lived there with him. Thomas rented a room in Goddin's hall, in Richmond, and took most of his meals at the Exchange hotel, but he had a room in the farmhouse and often spent the night there. For twenty years Bettie Thomas presided over the farmhouse and Thomas treated her in every wars his description. way as his daughter. He allowed her to have companions and furnished her with a horse and phaeton for her own pleasure. During the summers Thomas used to visit Saratoga, taking with him Bettle and her companion, Fannie Coles. The three ate at the same able, and Bettie was known there as Tho daughter. The summer before he died Thomas thought of visiting Europe and asked Bettie to accompany him, but she declined

HIS GIFTS TO BETTIE. A short time before he died Thomas sold his farm and bought a lot and built a house nearer the city. There he took Bettie to live with him. He frequently told her and others that he intended the house for her and proposed to deed it to her. He was soon taken sick, however, and never made his daughter a deed to the property. Thomas died early in January, 1889, and left no will. He was sick for some time previous to his death and Bettie nursed and cared for him very tenderly. It was while on his deathbed that Thomas gave Bettie the bankbook in which was entered the amount of his deposits in the Planters' National bank. She claims that the book was given to her with the purpose of giving her the money. She also claims that while on his deathbed and in his right mind he gave her several has. posed to deed it to her. He was soon take and in his right mind he gave her several me the begotiable notes which were due; the key to the safety deposit box rented by him in the Of tick Planters' National bank, and the key to the less an tin box in the safety deposit box, explaining to her that there she would find his most valuable papers, evidences of debt, stocks, securities, etc., which constituted the bulk of his estate; also the keys to the iron safe at the office of Drewry & Co., which contained some Everything that Bettie Lewis claimed regarding the relationship that existed between herself and Thomas was substantiated by affi-davits from some of the most prominent citidavits from some of the most prominent citizens of Richmond, among them Dr. Hunter McGuire, Thomas's physician. These persons deposed that Thomas was very fond of Bettie, had often said she was the only person in the world to whom he was under any obligation, and frequently said he intended to leave her his estate. Thomas had no relatives nearer than first cousins, and he never had anything to do with them. He had a very limited acquaintance with the citizens of Richmond. When he died Bettie claimed the whole estate by gift. The heirs at law, who are well known citizens of Pittsylvania and Henry counties, were quick to step forward and also claim the estate. Then began this new famous suit, the best legal talent in Virginia being retained on both sides.

Judge Leake decides that by gift—donatio mortis causa—Bettie Lewis is entitled to all Thomas's estate with the exception of his bank deposits, amounting to $18,000.

Thomas's estate with the exception of his bank deposits, amounting to $18,000.

Thomas, while on his deathbed, gave his daughter his bankbook, and she contended that he intended that she should have the money represented in the book, but on this point Judge Leake decides that the delivery of the bankbook was not sufficient delivery of the bank deposits. Unless this point is reversed by the court of appeals, the heirs at law, who are contending for the whole estate, will receive the $18,000 in bank.

The Dickson Case Recalled. This story lends interest to that of the late

Mr. David Dickson died suddenly on February 13, 1885, leaving an estate worth $400,000. He left a will bequeathing $5,000 to each of the four children of his sister, $2,000 each te five or six other persons, and $1,000 each to half a dozen others. The rest of his superb property was left to Amanda Dickson, a lored woman, in trust for her two mulatto children. The legatee is about forty-five years old. Mr. Dickson had deeded to her and her mother a handsome property before his death. They had eeu slaves of his, and had lived on his plantation for many years under circumstances which did not elevate Mr. Dickson's social standing or exalt the regard in which his neighbors held him. He lived twelve miles from Sparta, in the center of a plantation covering about 3,000 acres of land. Until he was over sixty years old he was a bachelor and a man of solitary habits. He seldom went to Sparta, and the chief break in the monotony of his life was his annual visit to Augusta. He attended regularly the Georgia railroad conventions in that city, because he was one of the largest stockholders in that road. In 1870 he married Miss Clara Harris, of this county. She lived as his wife for about two years and died childless.

DICKSON'S GREAT SUCCESS. DICKSON'S GREAT SUCCESS.

Mr. Dickson was famous as the most successful farmer in Georgia. Many years ago he wrote a book on farming, which is still regarded as an excellent work. He began to accumulate land when a young man. His steady success and shrewd business sense enabled him to become, while yet young, one of the largest planters and slave owners in Georgia. Just before the negroes were emancipated he owned 500 of them. The result of the war crippled him badly, but he was still left rich, and at once began to farm his lands on the tenant plan. The estate as he left it consisted of $90.000 in money, bonds and stock, and 30,000 acres of fine farming land in Hancock, Warren and Washington counties. He had spont large sums in improvements on his plantations. His residence was a big wooden structure, which from time to time had been added to and changed until it had become an architecture.

were all substantial. He expended over $10,000 in the construction of ponds about his home, and took pride in the culture of fish. He acquired for a small sum some lands near Fort Worth. Tex., soon after the war, and these rose so rapidly in value that when he deeded them away to a nephew, a few years before his death, they were worth over $50,000. THE DAY OF HIS DEATH.

The morning he died he called for his favorite saddle horse and rode several miles over his plantation. On returning to his house he complained of a pain in his side, and, lying down on his bed, he expired in a few minutes. By his own direction he was buried in his garden, with an open white silk handkerchief across his breast, a gold toothpick in his right hand and a penknife in his pocket. Soon after his death Amanda Dickson, her mother and her sons moved to Augusta, where they now reside in a house of their own.

As soon as the will was offered for probate notice of a contest was served upon the executors by some of the children of Mr. Dickson's brothers and sisters, who would have inherited his property but for his extraordinary will. The case was tried before Hancock superior court, Judge Lumpkin presiding. It was all the talk in Hancock and the surrounding counties, and its progress was watched with intense interest, not only because of the large amount involved, but by reason of the delicate questions of evidence and law which arose. Two days were consumed in an effort to obtain a jury. It was attempted to be shown that Amanda Dickson, the legatee, was not a child of David Dickson, but a child of his brother Green. It was in testimony also his brother Green. It was in testimony also that Amanda's mother, Julia, had full sway in the Dickson household, having convinced David that her child was his, and later, when David married, his wife had at all times to submit to the dictates of Julia. An effort was wall to submit to the dictates of Julia. made to prove by medical testimony that David could not have been the father of the child. Much testimony was also introduced to controvert these statements. The jury remained out two hours and a half, when it returned a verdict sustaining the will, which verdict was later sustained by the supreme

The Vacant Police Commissionership-Other Events of the Day. Augusta, Ga., January 7 .- [Special.]-

What will be done about the election of a present there seems to be a disposition on the part of the council to elect a man who has not vat police commissioner is not yet known. At who has not yet been put in nomination. It seems impossible to break the deadlock if McKensie and Hemphill are kept before the council. In the meantime the board of police commissioners has decided to organize without waiting on the council. It is still a month before the council meets again, and some man may be decided upon before it convenes again.

The Youngest Stenographer.

The Youngest Stenographer.

EDITOR CONSTITUTION: In your last Sunday's edition you had an article headed, "The Youngest Stenographer in the World," which compliments Master Louis Lively, stenographer for the Columbus Buggy Company, very highly, which I no doubt he deserves, being only twelve years old. Now, he is lively I know, but I am a hustler, being only eleven years old, and with only three months study. I work for the Augusts factory in both capacities, stenographer and typewriter, using the "Yost" machine. So far I give satisfaction and from what my employer says if I improve as much in the next three months as I have in the last I will be an expert. I hope soon to send you some prominent event that has transpired in our city in shorthand for your valuable paper, as I write this in shorthand and on the typewriter. Your friend, Rome, Ga., January 7.—[Special.]—Will Owens, who shot and killed Annie McCallie on the night of December 31st, 1890, had his preliminary trial before Justice Walter Harris. He was represented by Mr. E. P. Treadaway. Solicitor General Nunnally appeared for the Solicitor General Nunnally appeared for the state.

The evidence was as follows: On the night in question, Owens and a friend went to the house of two colored girls, Annie McCallie and Lula Draper. While Owens was sitting on a trunk playing with a self-cocking revolver Annie McCallie made some remark, and Owens said: "Annie, if you say that again I'll shoot you." About that time the pistol fired. Annie was shot in the neck, and died almost immediately. The defense claimed that the shooting was accidental; that the deceased and defendant were in the habit of playing together frequently; that there had been no quarrel at all between them. The defendant ran off immediately after the shooting, but was captured last Saturday at Weaver's Station, Ala., and brought back to Rome. The justice bound the prisoner over to the March term of Floyd superior court.

A $100,000 CHURCH.

THE FIRST BAPTIST CONGREGATION WANTS IT and They Will Build It This Year-It Will Seat from Fifteen Hundred to Two Thousand People.

A magnificent church costing $100,000 is what Atlanta is now promised.

It is to be built this year.

The church will be one of the largest and est in the south and will be owned by Rev. Dr. Hawthorne's congregation

It will seat 1,500 to 2,000 people. The First Baptist congregation held a meeting last night which was largely attended. During the evening Dr. Hawthorne stated that he had been thinking of a new church for a long time and that he mentioned it so that the members might think of it. Rev. Dr. J. William Jones advocated a new

"I think," he said, "that within the next year of two this building and lot will sell for almost enough to pay for the new one." Colonel B. F. Abbott supported Dr. Hawthorne life. While the scene is laid in New England, the surroundings and incidents are these peculiar to no one section. It is country life in all its simplicity and purity, and it appeals to every heart. The characters are real personages—people you may meet today or tomorrow. Old Josh Whitcomb is, or course a specimen of the New England type, but the New England type doesn't differ greatly from that found in other sections of the country, and the characters are true to the life. It would take half a column to tell the story of the play, and a good deal more to tell of all the applause with which it was received by last night's audience. The company producing the famous play is a thoroughly capable one. Mr. Boyd, as Whitcomb, is the life of the performance, of course, but there is not a weak spot in the cast. The singing is a specially good feature, and the stage settings add much to the success of the whole.

"The Old Homestead" will be repeated this afternoon and tonight, and should be greeted by big audiences.

RATTLE OF THE RAIL. THE GENERAL TRAFFIC MANAGER-SHIP OF THE TERMINAL

The Rumor Concerning Mr. Haas Untrue-A

Deserved Promotion—An Error. Other Matters. The name of Mr. Sol Haas, at present traffic manager of the Richmond and Danville rail-road, has been authoritatively mentioned by The Birmingham News and other papers for the general traffic managership of the Terminal consolidated lines. They who run may of course read that announcement, but a strong flavoring of salt should be added thereto, as it is entirely without foundation, according to the statements of those in a posi-

Mr. J. J. Farnsworth, formerly district passenger agent of the Louisville Southern branch of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad, has been promoted to the general passenger agency of the same branch, with head-quarters at Louisville. Mr. Farnsworth comes from Dalton, Ga., and is well and favorably known in railroad circles as a talented, bustling passenger man.

The irrepressible typegraphical error is at its old pranks. It made The Constitution say yesterday morning that by the change of the Georgia Pacific schedule, train No. 50 would hereafter leave Atlanta at 9:05 o'clock p. m., whereas 9:05 o'clock a. m. was intended. Travelors should make no mistake about this; the hour of departure is 9:05, o'clock, a. m., and the through sleeper which formerly left at 1:05 o'clock, p. m., will after this be attached to the morning train.

A meeting of the rate clerks and compilers of the Southern Passenger Association will be held in Commissioner Slaughter's office next week. They will compile the regular quarterly issue of association pa senger rate sheets.

Clergymen's reduced rate cards, over the Western and Atlantic railroad, will hereafter be issued by General Passenger Agent Harman. They were formerly issued by the general manager of the road.

A slight accident occurred on the Western and Atlantic railroad at Gilmore's station, ten miles north of Atlanta, at 11:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Two freight trains bound terday afternoon. Two freight trains bound north come together, the engine of the rear train lifting the caboose of the train ahead off the track. The car was wrecked and blocked up the road. Passenger train No. 4 from Chattanooga was delayed three hours in consequence, and No. 1, bound up, had to lay over one and a half hours before things were finally cleared up.

The Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway has declared a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent payable January 26th. The books will close January 15th.

The Richmond and Danville people an-nounce that passes will not be honored on the new limited vestibule train between Atlanta and Washington.

By arrangement between Mr. D. G. Edwards, general passenger agent of the Queen and Crescent, and Colonel B. W. Wrenn, general passenger agent of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad, the two ticket offices of the two roads in Chattanooga will be consolidated, Mr. J. M. Sutton and Mr. D. J. Mullaney occupying the office heretofore occupied by the latter. The consolidation is the suggestion of Mr. Wrenn to Mr. Edwards, and reduces the expenses of the two systems. Mr. Sutton will have the same authority he has always enjoyed, while it is not thought that Mr. Mullaney's authority will be decreased any. They will both report to the respective heads of the different systems. The consolidation of the office is simply one of economy.

The Central railway of Georgia has re-ceived and will shortly put on a number of new combination mail and express cars.

Ex-Superintendent Clark, of the Cincinnati Southern, who made way for Superintendent Griggs, has been offered the superintendency of the Alabama and Vicksburg and the Vicks-burg, Alabama and Pacific divisions of the Queen and Crescent, and has thirty days in which to accept or decline.

Physicians informed me that I was threa ened with paralysis or apoplexy. I suffered ter-ribly with pain on the right side of my head, especially when I would read or write, and on rising to my feet would become perfectly blind and had to hold to something to prevent my falling. I am happy to say that Bull's Sarsaparilla has entirely relieved me. My appetite is good and for the first time in a long while I enjoy my dinners.—Mr. B. C. Rivers, Louisville, Ky.

From The Sandersville, Ga., Progress.

Captain Isaac Hermann, the Sandersville agent of the Augusta, Gibson and Sandersville ratiroad, isone of the most interesting characters whom we have met since our residence in Sandersville, and he is a citizen who is held in the very highest esteem by all of our people. He is a native of France, but came to this country over thirty years ago, just prior to the war between the states. His sympathies were with the south from the beginning, and when the companies began to form to go to the front in defense of our rights he shouldered his musket and marched with the boys. He endured all the hardships and privations of the war, and served as faithfully as any native born southerner until General Lee laid down his sword at Appomattox, after which he returned here and cast his fortunes with the people whom he loved so well, and who in turn loved and honored him for his faithfulness and devotion to their cause. During the war Captain Hermann tion to their cause. During the war Captain Her-mann was a member of Evan P. Howell's artillery company. After the war this organization was company. After the war this organization was kept up in Sandersville several years, the building which The Progress now occupies having been erected for an armory. Captain Hermann was presented with a very handsome gold-headed cane by his company and old comrades, which he prizes as high as any of his possessions. On one side is

We Wish You a Happy, Happy New Year January, 1891! How the years roll by! April 8, 1886, we launched our name before the Atlanta public with the announcement that our stock was the largest in the city, our prices lower, our sys-tem more complete. We further announced that anything and everything usually kent in a first-class grocery stock could be found at our store. Since that time we have added all new desirable articles of diet that have come to notice. We are safe in saying that we have enjoyed, during these four years, the largest retail trade of any grocery house in the south, who dealt exclusively in gro-ceries. Our recent Christmas trade was phenom-enal. It exceeded our most sanguine expectations. Goods rolled out fast, and money with equal swiftness filled our coffers. So much for the past years, now for 1891. Do you want for the past years, now for 1891. Do you want bargains? Do you want first-class groceries? If so, you can get both at our store. We are still offering the finest, best quality of Jersey butter, worth 50 cents per pound, for 55 cents. Why pay 50 cents for a Jersey butter just because some name is printed across the top? 'Tis said there's nothing in a name. In this instance it is a loss of about 15 cents on every pound of bitter used. Now, my friends, come to our store, test our butter, and if it does not prove satisfactory do not buy it. We positively guarantee it to be the equal of any butter in the market sold for 50 cents per pound. Then again, we say to some of you, and with perfect deference, that you do not know what a fine quality tea is until you have used our own blend Talo Tea. It is absolutely without a match—an equal in all Atlants. Do not be skepown blend Talo Tea. It is absolutely without a match—an equal in all Atlanta. Do not be skeptical now, but send and try one-fourth of a pound. We state most emphatically it will pay you to do so, and if we made a practice of laying wagers, we would stake our—reputation that the quality would elicit comment from every one partaking of it, whether at private residence or boarding house. Oh! the stuff that is sold for tea at some of our stores! They cannot help it, though; they are not judges, and it was sold by some gentlemanly "knight of the grip," who recommended it as the best.

IS LIFE WORTH LIVING?

That depends upon the Liver, for if the Liver is inactive the whole system is out of order—the breath is bad, digestion poor, head dull or solving, energy gone, the spirits are depressed, a heavy weight exists after eating, with general despondency and the blues. The Liver is the housekeeper of the health, and a harmless, simple remedy that acts like Nature, does not constipate afterwards or require constant taking, does not interfere with business or pleasure during its use, makes Simmons Liver Regulator a medical perfection.

Have tested its virtues personally and know that for Dyspepsia, Biliousness and Throbbing Head-ache, it is the best medicine the world ever saw. Have tried many other remedies before Simmons Liver Regulator, and none gave more than temporary relief, but the Regulator not only relieved but cured me.

ATLANTA, GA., JANUARY 8, 1891.

The Chronicle and the New Schedule. The appearance of THE CONSTITUTION on the streets of Augusta in the early hours of morning seems to have attracted the attention of The Augusta Chronicle, and our esteemed contemporary treats its readers to a little essay on "Railroad and Newspaper Enterprise." It is an essay which we have read with pleasure, and, we trust, with profit. It is an essay that is kindly, and this kindliness we appreciate and shall reciprocate. It contains a few serious mistakes, and these we shall undertake to cor-

In the first place, although its remarks are kindly in tone, The Chronicle seems to resent the existence of a schedule which places THE CONSTITUTION along the Georgia road and in Augusta at an appropriately early hour in the morning. And yet the same schedule, instead of taking away any of the advantages that The Chronicle has heretofore enjoyed, gives it a much earlier occupation of the territory that lies between Camak and Macon than it before enjoyed. Nothing is more natural and inevitable than the schedule which has just gone into effect. It is in the interest of the traveling public. The Augusta train, instead of leaving Atlanta at 11 o'clock p. m., waits until 2 o'clock a. m., when it connects with the Louisville and Nashville express from the west, and passengers and mails are carried through without delay.

The advantages that THE CONSTITUTION derives from this new schedule are incidental, but we propose to work them for all they are worth. This can be done, too, without interfering in any degree with The Chronicle. Our contemporary has its field, and THE CONSTITUTION will endeavor to make one for itself.

The mistakes that are made by The Chronicle in its kindly article are important enough to bear correction. In the first place, THE CONSTITUTION that is served to our Augusta readers is, indeed, the old and the real Constitution. In every depart ment, line and feature, it is THE CONSTI TUTION that is served to our Atlanta readers. There is no difference whatever. Our working force is of such numbers and training that we are able to handle all the news of the day with a promptness that is unrivaled in the south, and it is this clock-work system that enables us to place a morning paper in Augusta, complete in all its depart ments, shortly after breakfast.

In its article on the new schedule, The Chronicle refers to "items prominent in The Chronicle which did not appear in THE Constitution." The allusion is to Tuesday's Constitution, and among the items are "the death of gallant Captain Wallace at Wounded Knee," and "the suspension of Colonel Forsythe, who commanded the troops at the late Indian uprising."

As a matter of fact the body of Captain Wallace passed through Atlanta Tuesday on its way to Yorkville, His death was announced in THE CONSTITUTION of December 30th, and the next day we printed a special dispatch giving full details. This is the main reason why THE CONSTITUTION did not have the announcement Tuesday morning. We observe, however, that The Chronicle did not announce yesterday that the old year is dead.

With respect to the suspension of Colone Forsythe, we may remark that if The Chronicle will examine THE CONSTITUTION of Tuesday it will find the matter duly set forth, and in detail, under a display head. Surely The Chronicle's editors did not read THE CONSTITUTION.

The things being so, we have the pleasure of wishing our esteemed Chronicle a happy and prosperous New Year. We shall try to aid it in making the good people of Augusta and the region roundabout contented with a schedule that is calculated to bring joy and contentment to those who have THE CONSTITUTION and The Chronicle for breakfast, and the lively evening papers for dinner.

As Others See Us.

The northern republicans who favor the new reconstruction of the southern states, and wish a bayonet behind every black ballot, should give due consideration to the fac that their policy is condemned by the Anglo-

Saxon race everywhere, The people of the south are not alone in their political and racial views. In a recent editorial on the force bill The London Times remarked that our controversies about the tariff and the currency are comparatively ephemeral by the side of the negro problem. The Times says in plain English that the negroes are an inferior race, and no artificial conditions will ever give them supremacy It is under the impression that the blacks are bulldozed or tricked out of their votes by the southern whites, but it calmly justifies such methods, and says: The political supremacy of the whites, however unscrupulously obtained, is Hyperion to a satyr as compared with the negro supremacy which prevailed in the southern states for many years after the civil war. No wonder if the memories of those shameful days, when the white citizens of South Carolina and other states saw the "dress of the lina and other states saw the "dregs of the dation habited in the robes of their intelligent predecessors, and asserting over them the rule of ignorance and corruption"—to cite the words of a republican and originally a stanch words of a republican and originally a stanch abolitionist—have implanted in the whites, now that they have regained their superiority, a desperate determination not to suffer that era to return. They may have the less scruple in resorting to irregularities when they remember that the enfranchisement of the negro, as distinguished from his manumission, was an afterthought, having for its object the reduction of the south to political subjection. The history of negro political supremacy in the south explains, no doubt, much of the bitterness which tinges the race question in general. But this race question is much more than a question of politics.

tion in general. But this race quasions the more than a question of politics. It invites us to look ahead for one or two generations, and predict, if we can, the future of these outhorn states, where the negro is multiplying in more rapidly shan the white. In four states, the Carolinae, and Georgia—the black population has increased 353.4 per cent, the white only 220.1 per cent, in the last 100 years. The col-ored population has grown from 549,507 to 2,402,-358; the white from 233,385 to 2,906,111. This com-parative rate of increase continues, although ne gro immigration has long ago ceased, and the moderate and trustworthy statistician estimate that by the year 1900 the negroes in eight states—the Carolinas, Virginia, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Louisiana, and Mississippi—will number 6,440,000, as against a white population of 5.912,000.

The figures quoted are unreliable. The census was not correctly taken in 1870, nor in 1800. But this straightforward expression of English opinion is of great interest and value to our statesmen and to the people who have to deal directly with the race problem. The republicans of the north are the only white people to be found anywhere on the globe who are willing to put millions of their own race under the domination of negroes. The outside world cannot understand such a policy, and it is difficult to explain it. Happily for the republic, the warlike career of the party in power is drawing to a close, and the masses demand legislation and methods of a peaceful and businesslike character.

The Future of the National Banks.

The New York Journal of Commerce which strikes the average mercantile mind as an institution rather than a daily newspaper, has some interesting remarks on our banking system. Our able contemporary starts out by deploring the prejudice against the banks on the part of legislators in con gress, and declares that this prejudice is not only unfounded, but that it cannot be explained nor justified by anything known to history.

THE CONSTITUTION is frank to say that It has not observed this prejudice to the banks on the part of our congressmen which seems to have struck the attention of The Journal of Commerce, and it is inclined to believe that there is some mistake about the matter. We do not hesitate to say that there is no hostility on the part of congressmen or the people to either the state banks or those that are operating under federal authority. The whole difficulty, and it is a difficulty that seems to be clearly recognized by The Journal of Commerce, lies in the fact that the laws under which the national banking Institutions are now operating belong to a period of war rather than to an era of peace. These laws are not only obnoxious to the general public-they hamper and embarrass the banks themselves. The great trouble is that as soon as the newspapers or public speakers begin to criticise the clumsiness of these laws as applied to the needs and demands of this period of rushing and hurryng business, their remarks are construed as attacks on the banks themselves. There seems to be a sensitiveness among the banks and bankers that is not to be explained by the ordinary methods of inference. And yet we have seen no severer critiism, coming from the conservative source it does, than that which is ventured on by The Journal of Commerce. Much has been said by the representatives of the banks and the partisans of the law as it stands, in regard to the provision which exacts the deposit of government bonds as a security for the bank note circulation. This provision is held up as a marvel of simplicity and completeness, whereas it is cumbersome and expensive. Moreover, as The Journal of Commerce points out, the provision was not intended to enable the national banks to furnish a bank note circulation, but to provide a market for the government bonds. The law was enacted at a time when the government was a heavy borrower, and when it was compelled to find a market for its bonds. Of late the government, through the suggestions and manipulations of Wall street. has been engaged in the work of embarrassing the national banks by calling in its nds and thus canceling and reducing the circulation based on them. Thus the banks, which were established to help the govern ment out of a pickle at a very critical period, are now employed by the agents of Wall street in the treasury as a means of contracting the currency. We believe that THE CONSTITUTION has had as much to say about the banks and the limitations of the laws under which they operate as any other vehicle of publication, but THE CONSTITUTION has never attacked the banks; and we are of the opinion that the prejudice to which The Journal of Commerce alludes does not exist. There are serious objections, however, to the laws under which the banks operate, and these objections are by no means unreasonable. There is no reason why real estate should be outlawed by the national banks, nor is there any reason why the issues of state banks should be prohibited by a 10 percent levy. We believe it is the purpose of the people to retain the banks and change the law. Among national bankers who take a broad view of the situation there will be found few to object to such a programme, provided it is safe and conservative, and based on sound business principles.

The Taxation of Incomes. The policy of taxing incomes is steadily growing in public favor, and sooner or later the government will be forced to give it a fair trial.

Our national treasury now has an annual deficiency of about $50,000,000. This must be made up in some way, and the most available remedy is to tax every citizen's income, exempting a small amount, say $1,000 or $1,500. It is right that a citizen should contribute to the support of the government in proportion to his revenue enjoyed under its protection. It might also be well to make the tax graduated or progressive, imposing a heavier rate on an income of $10,-000, and so on, increasing the burden with each taxpayer's capacity. It is objected that the income tax is inquisitorial and oppressive. But in its last analysis every act of the government is open to the same charge. It is said that men will perjure themselves under such a system. They do it under the present system, and we can afford to run the risk. Perhaps such a tax would be used to crush our millionaire capitalists. This is purely a fancy point. We may talk about the evil of great fortunes, but it is not likely that legislation will ever be directly aimed against them. There is no injustice in making a man with a big income pay a big tax rate. He is able to do it, and the government has the right to make the best possible use of him.

This reform in our system of taxati so strongly, endorsed by the Farmers' Alliance that it is bound to materialize in the near sture. The south and west demand it, and to only opposition to it very naturally mass from the plutocrate of the cost. It will certainly be a step in the right direction when the government learns to support itself without increasing the living expenses of its poorest and most unfortunate classes

THE HOUSE BILL for reapportionment has been considered by the census committee of the senate and a majority has agreed to report it favorably. This gives 356 members of the house and fixes the electoral college as outlined by The Construrion some days ago. A minority wishes to add three members. This is not likely in the face of the majority report, but even if such an amend-ment should be adopted it would not affect the representation in Georgia. RAPID TRANSIT.

AN ENTIRELY NEW SYSTEM TO BE PUT IN OPERATION

On the Streets of Atlanta by the ended Cable Car Company—Some-thing About Their Plans.

A new system of rapid transit. Or rather, another system—for while the uspended cable system has been in use for ears in other countries, and in San Francisco and other cities in this country, it will be a novel competitor in Atlanta's rapid transit

It is expected that work on the new lines those of the Atlanta Suspended Cable Railroad Company—will begin inside of thirty days, and that in four or five months the system will be n operation.

ABOUT THE SYSTEM.

Various kinds of overhead tramways ow at work in various parts of the world. The cost of these aerial tramways varies from $1,800 to $3,000 a mile, and there are early 200 miles of such roads in operation now. The endless cable haulage system was first ntroduced for working street railways in San Francisco in 1873. When it was propose here the scheme was ridiculed, but the system was a success. In February, 1874, it conveyed and during 1875 and 1876 the company carrie an average of 150,000 passengers a month. Within ten years from the inauguration of th first line, 1873, six different lines were opened. About 23 per cent of the entire population of San Francisco is daily carried over the combined cable cars of the city.

Chicago began to be interested in cable tramways in 1881. The first road was operated there in 1883, and now there are over twenty miles of it there, paying well. Philadelphia tried and adopted the cable system in 1883. The Brooklyn Bridge cable line was opened in 1883, and has given general satisfaction. It uses an endless steel wire cable 11 inches in diameter, 11,450 feet long, driven by drums twelve feet in diameter, at a speed of ten

There is another successful cable line in New York, three and one-quarter miles long. Other American cities have successful cable lines, notably St. Louis, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Omaha and Hoboken Heights, N. J.

There are many such foreign lines in succe ful operation. In the systems referred to above the endless cable which propels the cars is under the car, between the rails, and inside a slotted tube supported by pulleys. BUT THIS IS DIFFERENT. The suspended cable system differs from th older system in these points:

1. The "track" or permanent way upon which the wheels of the car run is "a cable above the cars," at a sufficient elevation to run the cars at the desired distance above and clear of the surface of the ground.

2. The cars are to be of a peculiar form and light weight. They are propelled by an endless steel wire cable which is also suspended above the car, and driven at a uniform rate of speed by power from a stationary engine applied to drums at the termini, thus forming a loop, and causing each haf of the cable to move in opposite directions.

3. This endless cable is made to passover and a pulley or grip clutch attached

The clutch is arranged by a seri of levers to clutch or turn loose this will, and the touch of the lever that release the cable puts on the break, stopping the cal nstantly.
4. Each car has attached to it also a "pick-switch, then closes the switch.

5. The cable track of this system is a single track (but may be double) on which cars may be made not only to pass each other at switches, but they may be moved backwards or forward at any point on the track by chang-ing the grip from one side of the loop of the ing the grip from one cable to the other side.

COMPARING THE TWO SYSTEMS. COMPARISO THE TWO SILVANDS.

The advantages caimed for the cable system as operated in San Francisco are:

1. General efficiency and economical work-

2. The steepest grades may be easily and 2. The steepess granded economically surmounted.
3. Heavy or fluctuating traffic can be dealt with premptly, efficiently and economically.
4. Safety and convenience greater than offered by locomotive or electric traction, and offered by locomotive are secured; whilst a equal to animal traction, are secured; whilst a re uniform speed and service can be attained at less cost.

at less cost.

5. Cheaper administration and more punctual service of cars at any required intervals.

6. Practical noiselessness and freedom from evolution of products of combustion, gas, steam or sparks, dirt, etc.

7. The traction efficiency is independent of the weights of rolling stock.

8. The power exerted by the cars upon descending grades is in a measure utilized for scending grades is in a measure utilized for assisting the ascending the cars, instead of being dissipated.

9. The stationary motive power is arranged of as to be automatically varied to meet the fluctuating requirements of traffic. 10. A car service may be permanently or periodically increased with said additional ost and in some cases the increas ost, and in some cases the increased consump-ion of fuel is almost inappreciable.

(11) The cars can be started, stopped or con-rolled with efficiency and promptitude.

(12) The system can be worked in any climate.

(13) The wear and tear of the permanent tive traction.

(14) The thoroughfares are not disturbed nor the air polluted.
(15) Veterinary, stable, shoeing, harnessing expenditures, etc., are avoided.

(16) Fewer cars are required to serve a given traffic on account of greater speed and carry-ing capacity. (17) Slippery condition of rails is no impedi-

(18) The cruelty and inefficiency of animal traction is avoided.

The disadvantages of the San Francisco system are:
1. The heavier cost of construction and

1. The heavier cost of construction and equipment.
2. More iron work is introduced upon the surface of the streets, and occasional interferences with gas, water and sewer services.

"The suspended cable system," said Mr. Samuel W. Goode yesterday, "has every one of the eighteen advantages claimed for the San Francisco system. In addition to those advantages, only about one-eighth the power is necessary to move a car on the cable track that is required on the surface rail track. It costs less to construct and equip than any other system in use. No grading of streets or roads is necessary, or building of bridges over guilles, etc. The surface of the streets is not at all interfered with. The cables, being in the air, are free from the dirt and snow of slotted tubes, or other surface trouble, and will therefore last longer.

or other surface trouble, and will therefore last longer.

"To construct and equip a mile of railroad under the surpended cable system, which it is proposed to establish in Atlanta, will cost not exceeding $7,667 per mile, and the expense of operating will absorb less than 20 per cent of the gross receipts.

"The suspended cable system is practically an entirely new thing, as applied to street car purposes. It is patented, and I control the patent.

Several important changes in the Atlanta, West End and Fort McPherson Railroad Com pany were made yesterday. And from all indications West End's dream shout to be realized.

But the changes first Colonel B. F. Abbott, who was one of the principal stockholders and the president of the company, sold his interest to Messrs. J. H. Mountain and H. L. Woodward, who were already becoming interested in the company, and who have been active in the work.

Then Mr. Mountain and Mr. Woodward old an interest in the company to Messrs. H. M. Atkinson, G. R. DeSaussure, L. P. Grant J. H. Porter, W. H. Inman, J. R. Collins, W. H. Holcombe and J. R. McKeldin.

Indeed it will.

The Constitution's Work. From The Elberton, Ga., Gazette. We publish this week the prospectus of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION for the year 1891 In 1868, when THE CONSTITUTION was first started, we were publishing The Gazette here as now, and while we have made but little advancement in any particular, we have Constitution with much pleasure. It is now one of the greatest newspapers of the country, and has done more to develop the resources of Georgia than almost any other agency. It most important part of Atlanta. However this may be, we are satisfied that neither the city Atlanta nor the people of Georgia could afford to do without THE CONSTITUTION. Its facilities for getting news are so perfect that nothing of importance escapes it, no matter in what part of the world it occurs. It is simply indispensable to any one who is in the habit of reading it.

The alliance candidates were overwhelmingly defeated, and all the old county officers were re-elected. Our next sheriff will be C. W. Hurst, clerk of the court; G. O. Warnock, tax receiver; Jesse Wimberly, tax collector; G. A. Ward, treasurer; Thomas Quinny, surveyor.

Marketta, Ga., January 7.—[Special.]—The election for county officers in Cobb has been quiet, notwithstanding the large number of candidates. Returns from nearly all the precincts are in, showing that all the old officers are relected, except for receiver. H. M. Putnam, of Acworth, is probably elected to that office. W. R. Montgomery, for clerk of court; beat A. H. Tolley over 800.

ANDERSYLLE, Ga., January 7.—[Special.]—The following ticket was elected in Washington county: For clerk of the superior court, C. W. Snell; for sheriff, C. A. Wall; for treasurer, J. R. Goodwyn, coroner.

MILLEGGEVILLE, Ga., January 7.—[Special.]—The election for county officers in Baldwin developed a great deal more life than was expected, about 1,000 votes being polled. Owing to the large number of candid-stes it will be considerably after midnight before the count is over, but a careful estimate places the winning ticket as follows: For clerk, Walter Payne; sheriff, C. W. Ennis; tax collector, Frank Stembridge; tax receiver, P. T. Ennis; county treasurer, John M. Edward; Coroner, Ben Gause: county surveyor, M. Grieve.

There were six candidates for tax collector, and the full count may change this estimate, the votes between Stembridge, Wilson and Fowler being very closes. Dalton, Ga., December 7.—[Special.]—No changes in county officers, except that Head was elected over Fincher by a small majority.

ROME, Ga., January 7.—[Special.]—The election for county officers came off here today, all the offices hotly contested, except that of treasurer. Mr. J. B. Hill, the present treasurer, was reelected without opposition. Mr. Jake C. Moore, the present sheriff, was opposed by Mr. E. Penticost, one of our most prominent citizens. Mr. Moore is re-elected by a good majority. The office of clerk of the superior court was probably the most hotly contested of all. There were four candidates. A. F. Ross, the son of our former clerk, Colonel A. E. Ross, who held the office for forty-two years, and died last July, is one of the candidates. He was appointed to fill out his father's unexpired term. Mr. W. E. Beyslegel, who was Mr. Ross's deputy, lerk for seventeen years, Mr. William A. Wright, the oldest son of Hon. Augustus R. Wright, and Robert Harvey, son of Judge Harvey, are the others. Mr. Ideyslegel is elected by a good majority. Mr. John J. Black, the present tax collector, was strongly opposed by Mr. H. West, others. Mr. Bleysiegel is elected by a good majority. Mr. John J. Black, the present tax collector, was strongly opposed by Mr. R. H. West, but will pull through by a comfortable majority. Indications point to the election of M. F. Boyd as tax receiver over L. L. Rhudy, the present incumbent. James A. Arnold leads all others by a large majority for county surveyor. The race for coroner is very close between L. M. Dumon and Henry C. Harper, and it will take the official count to decide it. Alliance issues entered very little into the contest; the candidates generally ran on their own merit. About the only issue was between the old and new ticket.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., January 7.—[Special.]—The election of county officers today resulted as follows: W. H. Berry, sheriff; J. L. Beach, clerk; J. P. Lamb, treasurer; H. J. Read, tax collector; G. C. Myers, surveyor.

AUGUSTA, Ga., January 6.—[Special.]—The county election here is attracting little attention. The registration was light and the voting lighter. The following officers were elected: Sheriff, P. J. O'Connor; clerk superior court, W. E. Keener: tax collector, John A. Bohler; tax receiver, W. J. Steed; county treasurer, George Adam; corner, L. A. Plequet; county surveyor, Dr. Reaves. W. J. Steed beat Hollingsworth, the lneumbent by about seventy-five votes. All the returns are not in, and Steed is certainly elected.

Thomasville, Ga., January 7.—[Special.]—The following officers were elected in Thomas county today: Sheriff, R. P. Doss; clerk, J. W. Grower; tax collector, H. R. Hurst; tax receiver, W. R. Wynn; treasurer, Charles Gandy; coroner, B. C. Johnson; surveyor, W. H. Rodgers.

Grantville, Ga., January 7.—[Special.]—Our little town passed through quite a heated and exciting municipal election last Saturday, which resulted in the triumph of the "young men's" ticket. The defeated candidates, however, with their supporters, have accepted the result very gracefully, and the successful candidates have already taken the reins of government in hand. The ticket elected was: Mayor, J. R. Cetton; councilmen, J. E. Deane, W. B. Smith, J. T. White and R. F. Brannon. Mr. J. W. Bellamy was elected mershal.

Warkinsville, Ga., January 7.—[Special.]—The following ticket was elected overwhelmingly: For sheriff, B. E. Overby; for treasurer, Thomas Booth; for clerk of the superior court, John Calvin Johnson; for tax collector, John W. Johnson; for tax receiver, M.

J.E. Campbell.

I.A. Grandell, Ga., January 7.—the election of officers in Troup went off very quietly, there boing no opposition to the ticket nominated in the primary. About 600 votes were cast for each one of the candidates and the people all feel sure that the duties of the respective offices will be satisfactorily executed. The following were the officers elected: Clerk superior court, E. T. Winn; Sheriff, E. M. Henderson; tax collector, W. W. Cato: tax receiver, W. J. Buris; treasurer, J. W. Smith; coroner, T. H. Candle; surveyor, J. H. Coane.

KNONVILLE, Ga., January 7.—[Special.]—The KNOXVILLE, Ga., January 7.—(Special.)—The officers elected for Crawford county are as follows: Cieft superior court. H. M. Burnett; aberiff, J. C. Cuiverhouse; tax collector, J. M. Sanders; recrieve, R. H. Wright; corpner, T. J. Holloman. Ordinary and county commissioners hold yet two years. NOTES BY THE WAYSIDE

THE CONFEDERATE PENSIONS are Likely to Reach High-Water Mari

this Year.

The amount paid in pensions to crippled conederate veterans will probably reach high water mark this year.

That is, unless the law should be amended, so as to make others eligible. In 1889 there were 2,714 pensioners; in 1890 there were 3,125. Captain Tip Harrison estimates that this year there will be 3,250. there will be 3,250.

The increase noticed is because not all who are eligible apply the first year they are eligible. A knowledge of the law must disseminate before all who are really entitled to pensions make application.

pars now, and while the number of new applica-tions gets less and less each year, the death per-centage gets higher and higher.

So, supposing the new applications to outnum-ber the withdrawals by death, removal, from the state, etc., for 1891, the difference will probably be on the other side for 1892.

The ratio of decrease can be approximated from the figures under the operation of the old pension the ngures under the visual state of the law.

This went into effect in 1879, when there were 1,000 pensioners.

For the fourth year—the increase having virtually ceased, and the death rate becoming apparent, there were only $40. That was in 1883.

In 1886 there were 780.

The pensions for old soldiers vary, according to the number and character of the wounds.

This year the widows of the soldiers, who are eligible under the conditions of the law, are pensioned. Each of them gets $100.

The legislature estimates that $60,000 would be enough for the widows.

Now, is it enough?

That will pension just 600 widows, and the question is—won't there be more than 600 just claims?

claims?

No matter how many there are—they will all be paid. The $60,000 in the appropriation act don't flean much. It is nothing more than the best estimate the legislature could form as to how many widows in the state would be eligible.

Figure some for yourself. Georgia furnished 125,000 confederate soldiers. Georgia furnished 125,000 confederate soldiers. Of that number perhaps 70 to 75 per cent were unmarried. That leaves, say, 32,500 married men from Georgia in the ranks. That's a liberal estimate.

Now, it is inotable that the percentage of married men who died in the service, or since from the results of the service, is smaller, than the percent. ied men who died in the service, or since from the esults of the service, is smaller than the percent results of the service, is smaller than the percentage amongst the unmarried.

Now, estimate how many of the 32,500 married men died in the service, or from its effects. Now, of that number of widows, how many are still alive, and have not married since and still live in Georgia.

Don't it seem there would be more than 600. But then, on the other hand, not all that are eligible will apply this year.

PRAYING FOR THE COUNTRY. The Third Night of the Week of Prayer-Dr. Barnett Talks.

The service of prayer last night at the First resbyterian church was impressively interestng throughout.
Dr. Barnett presided and made a very appropriate and well-put talk about the necessity of prayer for the executive rulers of nations, this being the subject and theme of the service. SUNDAY SCHOOL MEN. They Get Together and Talk Interestingly

About Teaching.
Some interesting talks were heard by those who ttended the quarterly meeting of the Fulton County Sunday School Association, at the Church of the Redeemer, yesterday. PRESIDENT ERWIN.

HE WILL PRESIDE OVER THE WATERWORKS COMMISSION.

The New Members Go In-Work Toward ward--Yesterday's Meeting.

It is President Erwin, now.

The board of water commissioners met yes erday morning and the senior member in point of service, Hon. Howell C. Erwin, was hosen president. The board further organized by electing Judge George Hillyer vice presi-dent. Superintendent Richards was, of course, e-elected, and so was Mr. George W. Terry, the efficient secretary of the board.

Hemphill (ex officio), Judge George Hillye and Alderman Hutchison, chairman of the waterworks committee of the general council were present and took a lively interest in the affairs of the board.

The water situation was discussed at length, and every one present was positive in asserting that Atlanta needed and should have a new water supply. The annual reports of the superintendent and the secretary showed the ources which have been suggested were dis ssed fully and thoroughly. The board finally decided to instruct City Engineer Clayton and Superintendent Richards to visit the Chattariver water from that point to Atlanta.

within the next few days, and as soon as he has completed it the source of the new supply will be determined upon.

The election of Mr. Erwin to the presidency was a compliment of which any member of the board should be proud. Mr. Erwin, appreciating that fact, made a happy speech of accentance.

Mayor Hemphill was busy during the day yesterday with papers presented to the general council last Monday. He also signed several checks. Mayor Hemphill has decided to make his office hours from 10:30 o'clock to 12:30 o'clock. In addition to this he will be in the office every afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The general council committee on printing met yesterdry afternoon at 4 o'clock to open the bids for the printing of the annual reports.

Among the bidders were THE CONSTITUTION job office, Sission, Bradfield, Syl Lester, Franklin Printing house and the Mutual Printing company. The contract was awarded to THE CONSTITUTION job office. MR. HORNADY'S FUNERAL.

The announcement of the death of Rev. Paul Hornady cast a gloom over a large circle friends in this city yesterday.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET. The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock

NEW YORK, January 7.—The stock market today was strong throughout with a decided increase in orders executed by commission houses. Time money loaned at 5 per cent and, on the whole, the outlook for a continuance of an upward movement is very favora-ble. The feature of the market today, however, was ble. The feature of the market today, however, was a change in the front, apparent or real, of foreigners, and where they have been sellers of stocks for the past four or five days, today there was an effort made to get back those stocks without advancing prices. An anouncement that Louisville and Nashville had declared a dividend, and that it was 2½ per cent in cash, had a most squitary effect upon that stock in early cash trading, making it the feature of the dealings throughout the forencon. Louisville and Nashville had a spurt of activity and strength in the early trading, but was followed later by Pacific Mail, which rose on the vote yesterday in the house on taking up the shipping bill for discussion. Sugar refineries also showed marked strength, terday in the house on taking up the snipping bill for alscussion. Sugar refineries also showed marked strength, which was found to be due to covering of a large short line in stock. Jersey Central also made a sharp upward spurt in later dealings, but lost a portion of its improvement in final dealings. The market, if anything, was narrower than that of yesterday, the bulk of trading being confined more than usually to a few leading shares. The opening was strong under the influence of ares. The opening was strong under the influence the change in the front by foreigners and the dividend on Louisville, but while further gains were scored in almost everything traded in, operations of the beam kept the market feverish and to a large extent unset tied. The afternoon showed little animation, but bes tied. The atternoon showed little animation, out best prices were reached before 2 o'clock p. m., and some reaction was seen from the highest points. The closs was quiet and firm. Final changes are generally frac-tional gains. Sales listed, 209,000 shares; unlisted

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, January 7.— (Special.)—The advance in Liverpool today, combined with the large spot sales, was a surprise to the trade causing a sharp demand from those who expected the receipts would check any further advance abroad. This demand appears to be the effect of buying by the spinning corporations abroad, who annually allow their stocks to run down before January 1 to show a clear balance sheet on that date. The movement of the crop continues on a very heavy scale, though the receipts at New Orleans were not so heavy as had been estimated, and the total is 24,600 bales, against 13,000 bales last year. In the last few minutes the market was bid up catching stop 24,000 bates, against 13,000 bates has year. In the last few minutes the market was bid up catching stop orders and forcing the completion of large Liverpool buying orders at the very top of the market. Exporters were selling during day, but the market looks for a further advance in the morning. Receipts for the week point to 200,000 bates, against 136,000 last year.

By Private Wire to Youngblood & Haas.

NEW YORK, January 7. Our market closed firm at a considerable advance in consequence of the southern markets being firm and somewhat lighter receiping. The market may go temporarily higher if Liverpoo continues firm, but we don't think the improvement will last long.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

RINGING OUT THE OLD AND BING-ING IN THE NEW. The Old Board Steps Out and the New Board Begins the Work of the Year by Transacting Much Business.

The old board of county commess bowed itself out yesterday morning as 10:30 It was a matter of very little ceremoney, despite the amount of stately dignity usually piled up by that august body.

Hon. John Tyler Cooper, clerk of the board, was the first to arrive in the elegant hall recently completed in the courthouse annex, and set apart for the use of the board.

Next came Captain John W. Nelms, the youngest member in point of official position, and on his heels came Mr. James D. Collins and Dr. Henry L. Wilson.
Dr. Wilson made a dash for his chair, re-

"I'm not going to give up my seat. It's bad luck to lose your seat, and I wouldn't take $1,000 for mine.' "Anybody can buy mine," remarked Commissioner Collins, "or anything else I am possessed of, and I want it understood that my terms are cheap. By the way, Wilson, pay me that little balance; no, I don't want a check, give me the cash. I owe Hunnicutt some money that I borrowed in the barber shop awhile ago, and it's bad luck to let it go over.

Called To Order. "Let the old board come to order," said Chairman Hunnicutt, cutting short the con versation, and the members took their places. "There, Captain Nelms, you take Murphey's vacant seat, beside Judge Garrett, on the right. Now, we are ready for business." There was no business left over. The old board had kept so well up with its work that there was no fag end of business to go over.

Chairman Hunnicutt explained that his misconstruction of the new law and change of order in the work of the board, had caused him not to have the reports of the various county officers ready. Thereupon it was decided that the reports be not required until the first of April, the time at which they have been handed in under the old order of business. "The old board is now adjourned sine die," said Chairman Hunnicutt. Organizing the New Board. "I have a resolution to offer here," said Commissioner Collins.

"The first thing in order is to select a temporary chairman," put in Commissioner "I nominate Judge Garrett then, for temporary chairman." Judge Garrett took the chair, and then the election of chairman began. When the ballots were counted the vote stood: Hunnicutt 4, Wilson 1, and Mr. Hunnicust was declared It was then agreed that in accordance with the provisians of the law, the officers elected by the board shall hold over until January 1, instead of April 1, as heretofore. Petitions for renewal of quart license by Potts & Potts and Rose & Bailey, were granted. A petition from a number of citizens south of the city for a public road in front of "our respectable property," was referred; and a petition to open Juniper street was postponed. The Peachtree road matter was postponed.

The balance of cash on hand was reported as $18,600.37, and receipts for December $74,-The petition of the Suspended Cable Company which came through Samuel W. Goode, was referred to the committee on roads and

The bonds of recently elected constables, J. B. Martin, P. W. Merritt, J. N. Crenshaw, G. G. Cook, and W. G. Bryant were examined, approved and signed by the members of the board. Who Is Constable?

A muddle grows out of the appointment of a constable for the 469th district. A certified appointment of H. O'Shields for the bailiff of the district, by W. W. Bishop, notary public, and W. C. Horton, justice of the peace, to which a good and sufficient bond was attached, was exhibited by County Attorney Thompson.

This appointment was dated January 3d.

Another instrument was a bond signed by Lawson Baldwin, as principal, and several sureties, without any showing of his appointment.

Still another set forth, over the signature of W. C. Horton, J.P., that showed Norary Public Bishop had reappointed O'Shields at 9:30 o'clock on the morning of the day of which his term expired, and that he signed the certificate of appointment knowing its illegality on account of its being premature.

He approved the appointment of John Stegall, and his investment with all the powers of court all saling.

of constableship.

It was decided that the thing was too much mixed up, and the whole matter was returned to Justice Horton and Notary Bishop for settle-

REPORT ON ROCKWORK.

Mr. Baylor reported on rockwork on county roads for 1830.

The report was macadam, twelve miles, ninety-eight feet; rubble, eleven miles, 4,297 feet; total, twenty-three miles and 4,395 feet. Of this the south side received the benefit of fourteen miles and 1,705 feet; and the north side nine miles and 2,690 feet.

The report of the superintendent of the public works department, for the month, showed: Number on hand, 113; number received for the month, 30; discharged, 14; paid fines, 2; number on hand December 25, 124.

The almshouse report showed: Inmates first of the month, 39; received, 3; died, 1; discharged, 4; leaving 37 inmates on December 25, with 11 in the chaingang and 6 in the asylum.

He Left an Estate. One item in this report shows that John Miller, a Swede, has been an inmate since 1885. He had about $300 when he entered the alms-

He had about $300 when he entered the aimshouse.

At his death, which was caused by old age, Miller still possessed about $92 in cash.

Superintendent Hope paid $44.50 for a coffin in which to bury the body, leaving $45.50 in his possession, of the disposition of which he asked instructions from the board. Miller had no relatives in this country, so far as was known, and he left no directions as to the disposal of his little hoard.

It was ordered by the board that the money be placed in the country treasury, subject to the demand of any legal claimant who may appear and establish the validity of such claim.

The coroner's bills for November and De-Claim.

The coroner's bills for November and Decembe, $300, were passed upon and ordered paid.

Ordinary W. L. Calhoun's bill for the expenses of preparing for the elections during the year of 1890, including the January elections for 1891, amounting to $500, was ordered paid.
Other bills were passed and ordered paid by the board.

Election of Officers. The election of officers followed. T. G. Donaldson was unanimously re-elected superintendent of public works, from April 1, 1891, to January 1, 1892.

All the overseers and guards under Superintendent Donaldson were continued, subject to his approval.

THE MORRIS AFFAIR.

It Looks Like There Was no Forgery
About the Dewberry Deed.
Further investigation shows that the transaction of J. E. Morris, the missing cashier of the Southern Loan and Banking Company, with the Germania Loan and Banking Company, was in all probability strictly source.

probability strictly square.

The deed given by Morris to the bank to secure the $400 in notes, together with the notes and other papers were shown to a CONSTITUTION reporter by Mr. Peter Clarke, cashier of the Germania Loan and Banking Company, yesterday.

Eight of the notes have been paid by Mr. Dewberry, and Mr. Clarke says these payments have been as prompt as could be desired.

When Morris went to have the notes discounted, he offered as security a deed to certain property given to him by Mr. Dewberry. Mr. Clarke refused this, and told Morris he could have the notes discounted if a deed was made direct to the Germania by Mr. Dewberry.

Several days afterward Morris presented a deed to the property from Mr.Dewberry to the Germania Loan and Banking Company, and the notes were cashed.

The first deed mentioned, from Dewberry to Morris, was witnessed by Mr. W. A. Wright and Mr. Thomas F. Corrigan. The second deed from Dewberry to the Germania Loan and Banking Company was witnessed by Mr. Grant Martin and Mr. T. W. Birney. Both these deeds are held by

The signatures to the two deeds and on all the Notes are very much alike, and if any one of the signatures is forged, it is very cleverly done.

The New Orange Crop.

From The New York Times. Although the crop of Florida oranges is not quite as large this season as it was last winter, the orange growers will probably realize more money than they did then. There is a greater demand. The crop of apples last year was small, and fine, juicy apples are very scarce. The lovers of apples have onsequently taken to the succulent orange, and the prices of oranges are about $1 a box more than they were last season.

It isn't the usual way -it's just the reverse-to pay a patient when you can't cure him. Nevertheless, that's what's done by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. They promise to pay you $500 if they can't cure your catarrh, no matter how bad the case. It isn't mere talk—it's business. You can satisfy yourself of it, if you're interested. And you ought to be, if you have catarrh. It's faith in their medicine that's behind the offer. It has cured thousands of the worst cases, where everything else failed. You can be cured, too. If you can't, you get the money. They're willing to take the risk-you ought to be glad to take the medicine.

It's the cheapest medicine you can buy, because it's guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

You only pay for the good you Can you ask more? That's the peculiar plan all Dr..
Pierce's medicines are sold on.

THE CIRCUIT COURT.

A BUSY SESSION AND A BIG DOCKET ARRANGED

A Dozen Damage Suits for Trial-Two Motions for New Trials-In the Courtrooms.

Judge Newman decided yesterday to continue with the work of the civil docket, and the court will be convoked again next Monday morning.

For several days past there has been no session of the court, it having been hoped that the departments would have been moved into the new government building this week.

ished for two or three weeks yet, and for this reason Judge Newman will hold court at the old quarters Monday.

A large calendar of civil suits has been arranged for Monday and Wednesday.

MONDAY'S CALENDAR. The following cases are booked for Monday in the order named: i. J. M. Webster vs. the Richmond and Danville railroad; a suit for damages on the ground of per-railroad; a suit for damages on the ground of personal injury.

2. William Black & Co. vs. Ivey Brothers and A.

J. Daniel: a suit on a note.

3. Mrs. J. A. Woodruff vs. the Richmond and Danville railroad; a suit for damages, on the ground of personal injury.

4. Faletha Alford vs. the Georgia Pacific railroad; a suit for damages to person.

5. Dolia Attaway vs. East Tennesse, Virginia and Georgia railroad; suit for damages.

6. Wylie J. Cooper vs. Richmond and Danville railroad; suit for damages.

7. Jane H. Cooper vs. Richmond and Danville railroad; suit for damages.

MOTIONS FOR NEW TRIAL.

Two motions for new trials will be heard Monday.

In the case of Jerre Lumkin vs. the Georgia

Monday, In the case of Jerre Lumkin vs. the Georgia Pacific, the road moves for a new trial. The last verdict was against the company to the tune of $5.20 departs. Sc.220 damages.

In the case of Thomas P. Davis vs. the Richmond and Danville, the road moves for another verdict. The last one gave the plaintiff $8,000, and was tried on the 28th of October.

WEDNESDAY'S DOCKET.

WEDNESDAY'S DOCKET.

On Wednesday, according to the docket, the case of Jesse P. Haswell vs. the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad will be heard.

It is a suit for damages on the ground of personal injury. The plaintiff was a brakeman in the service of the road and had his right leg cut off by a train. He sues for $25,000.

With these damage suits before it, the circuit court will have a busy session next week.

Mr. Olin C. Fuller, the clerk of the circuit court, says the offices will most probably be moved into the postoffice building week after next.

Colonel W. H. Chapman, the well-known revenue agent from this division of the ser-vice, is in Washington attending to some revenue work. He is expected to return tomorrow.

Colonel A. E. Buck, United States marshal, has been spending several days at the national capital.

Captain Henry C. Hamilton, former clerk of the district court, has left Atlanta for Dalton, and he will make real estate matters lively in the Mountain City for the next few years.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

A HEAVY PENALTY.

An East Point Man Must Pay for Selling Drink. Dr. B. M. Trautham was fined $250 for selling a lrink of whisky in East Point, in superior court, presterday.

Dr. Trautham was indicted, by the last gran jury, on a charge of selling a drink of whisky without having paid the necessary license.

He was tried, convicted of the offense, and sentenced as above stated. sentenced as above stated.

Jerry Clarke was sentenced to serve five years in the peniteutiary by Judge Marshall J. Clarke yesterday, on the charge of larceny from the house.

There will be a call of the docket for setting criminal cases, in superior court this morning.

Wait a Little While. Yes, take your time, for it is better late than never, and if you will not at once try the proper remedy to restore your health wait until your doctor says you can't live and then try it. Doctors make a mistake quite often and doctor symptoms instead of diseases. A patient complains of mysterious aches and pains, sleeplessness, gloomy forebodings, nervous disquietude, etc. He is given a liniment for his aches, according to the line of the same are reliable to the line of the l a narcotic for his sleeplessness, whisky to make him cheerful, and nux vomica or other poison to quiet his nerves. Verily, the last condition of that man is worse than the first. How many fall into the whisky or optum habit and remain confirmed invalids until death brings relief. You don't need such stuff. You need an alterative. You need a remedy that will merely assist nature in regaining her equilibrium. You need a remedy that will assist brum. You need a remedy that will assist and strengthen the natural functions of the body. You need a remedy that will assist the digestion and assimilation of food you eat, a remedy that is easy and kind to the stomach, kndneys and liver. Such a remedy is Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla. Try it and you will then get well in spite of doctors and erroneons treatment.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

To All Parties Who Contemplate Going to Louisians or Texas.

The Queen and Crescent route is the shortest, quickest, cheapest and best line to all points west. I do not ask you to look at our map to prove to you that our line is the shortest. You can take the map of all other lines leading to Texas and you will see that they give us almost an air-line from Atlanta to Fort Worth, Tex., passing through Birmingham, Meridian, Vicksburg and Shreve-port, or New Orleans. This line being the shortest, of course it is the quickest, and it being the quickest, you know it is the cheapest, and being the cheapest it is the best line.

Why, just think of this, only two changes of cars Atlanta to Fort Worth, Tex., on all of our regular trains. The Queen and Crescent route makes special low rates to all emigrants moving west. Emigrants going this line are put in first-class coaches, baggage checked through to destination. One hundred and fifty pounds of baggage checked free with each whole ticket; seventy-live pounds to each half ticket. Agents of this line will meet emigrants at the nearest railroad station with through tickets and through check, and will accompany them to Atlanta and see that they are put on the fast limited train for the west. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

C. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind., writes: "My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skilful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine, saying he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This indisputable evidence of the great merit of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has given me unbounded confi-dence in the preparation, and I recommend it to my customers, knowing it cannot disappoint them."
"Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured me of a bad cough and my partner of bronchitis. I know of numerous cases in which this preparation has proved very beneficial in families of so that the medicine is known among them as 'the consoler of the afflicted.'"—Jaime Rafus Vidal, San Cristobel, San Domingo.

"A short time ago, I was taken with a severe attack of bronchitis. The remedies ordinarily used in such cases failed to give me relief. Almost in despair of ever finding anything to cure me, I bought a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was helped from the first dose. I had not finished one bottle before the disease left me, and my throat and lungs were as sound as ever."—
